Time Magazine Praises Arkansas
The 'Slow Train' Has Speeded Up

Time magazine thinks it important enough to mail reprints out to all the newspapers because the current issue (July 27) tells how our state has overcome the bad publicity resulting from a once-famous book of alleged humor, "On a Slow Train Through Arkansas." Perhaps it is important—although I have always doubted it, for there isn't a state among the 48 but what has its weak points for those inclined to ungenerous remarks.

Axis in Africa

Dig in to Hold Advance Points

—Africa

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Cairo, July 28 —(AP)—Harassed by new British land and aerial counter-thrusts, Field Marshal Rommel's African army appeared today, after the latest flareup of fighting, to be digging in for an attempt to hold its forward positions 75 to 80 miles from Alexandria rather than try to drive toward the Nile Delta and Suez.

Fighting went on through last night in the newest British blow at the northern flank of the front where the battle has been saved for four weeks since Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's troops brought Rommel's long push to a standstill.

Some prisoners were taken in the fight, and losses were inflicted upon the Axis forces, but there was no indication that any large, permanent wedge had been driven in the Axis line. In some places imperial troops dropped back to their original positions.

The Axis forces met the fury definitely on the defensive and made no immediate move to hit back.

Both sides are racing to get more men and material. Rommel is handicapped in this by the difficulties in drawing strength from the continent and by British and United States aerial blows at his lines of reinforcement. Auchinleck is handicapped by the enormous distance of the battlefield from his sources of supply.

British headquarters described the flareup of fighting on the north flank as severe.

Texas Runoff Is Assured

Dallas, July 28 —(AP)—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel's bid for the "Ain't gonna be no runoff," will be into one against James V. Alfred August 22 —and the Texas congressional delegation is heading homeward almost en masse "for a little Texas sunshine."

Whether the congressmen will play a part in O'Daniel's bid for a second senatorial term caused lively speculation, but there has been no answer.

With only two percent of the votes in the Democratic primary uncounted, the Texas election bureau declared that a runoff August 22 was assured.

With 135 counties complete out of 254, O'Daniel's vote was 468,346, or 48.37 per cent; Alfred's 310,615 or 32.07 per cent; Dan Moody's 176,916, or 18.27 per cent; and Floyd E. Ryan's, 12,378. A runoff is required unless one candidate gets a majority. The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

Biologist to Survey the Ouachita River

Little Rock, July 28 —(AP)—Dr. C. E. Hoffman, University of Arkansas biologist, will direct the Fish and Game Commission's survey of stream pollution needs on the Ouachita river.

Dr. Hoffman and his assistant, W. K. Bell, will spend about 30 days on their floating laboratory taking samples of the stream. His findings will be used as a basis for promulgating anti-pollution regulations, Commission Secretary T. A. McAnis said.

No Disorders as Negroes Try to Vote Over State

A pole of Hope's seven precincts shortly after noon today showed a total of 392 ballots cast indicating a much lighter vote than the 885 cast at the same time in 1940.

The vote from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. was considerably heavier than the 210 votes cast prior to that time. Voting is expected to reach full swing during the afternoon when factory workers are released from duty.

The polls close at 6:30.

As in past election years an election party will be held in front of The Star building on South Walnut beginning about 8 o'clock tonight. All returns, county and state will be flashed on a large screen in front of the Star building.

The vote by wards:

Ward 1-A	65
Ward 1-B	58
Ward 2	117
Ward 3	83
Ward 4	36

Hope's six precincts shortly before noon showed only 210 ballots cast as against more than 800 at the same time in 1940. Malvern had 246 voters shortly before noon as against 600, and Magnolia reported 234 as against 600.

Texasiana election officials said voting there was light as compared to 1940, with 350 ballots cast to 11 a. m. Other light voting was reported at Paragould where 200 votes were cast to 11 a. m. and at Helena which had 107 to 11 a. m.

An exception to the rule was Fayetteville which had 423 votes at 11 a. m., and at Camden which had 275 to the same hour. Stuttgart voting was slightly below par with 1154 votes in its four precincts.

Pine Bluff had an extremely light vote, only 253 votes being cast there up to 11 a. m., as compared to about 1,000 to the same hour in 1940. The same was true of El Dorado which had only 102 votes at 11 a. m., as against 1,010 in 1940 and 1,000 in 1938.

To Reorganize FSA Districts

Little Rock, July 28 —(AP)—A few Negroes in scattered sections of Arkansas attempted unsuccessfully to vote in today's Democratic preferential primary and a spokesman said the denials would be reported to the Department of Justice.

Dr. J. M. Robinson, president of the Arkansas Negro Democratic Association which has been leading the fight for Negro voting in primaries, said association officials would compile information and forward it to Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

First reports of attempts by Negroes to vote came from Little Rock, Pine Bluff and Conway. In all cases the Negroes quietly walked away from the polls after they had been refused ballots.

At Camden, a handful of Negroes who had been permitted to vote in Democratic primaries for years were allowed to vote today without challenge.

Voting generally was light.

At Jonesboro, only 387 out of the 3,240 eligibles had voted at 11 a. m. This compared to 928 votes cast to 1:5 p. m. two years ago.

State Scrap Iron Goal Set

Washington, July 28 —(AP)—The War Production Board has set a six-month goal of 17,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel to be collected under the nationwide salvage program.

The quota was broken down by states on estimates furnished by the bureau of mines. The WPB predicted that the greatest source of scrap would be the region including Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia, which has a quota of 3,422,000 tons. The next largest quota — 3,125,000 tons — was assigned to the region including Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Officials reported about 3,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap on hand, representing a about one month's supply at current production rates. During the first six months of the year the industry consumed 13,700,000 tons.

Among the state quotas was: Arkansas 85,000 tons.

Election Party at Star Building Tuesday Night

The Star will hold its customary Election Night Party in front of the newspaper building on South Walnut street Tuesday night, July 28.

Returns from the Democratic preferential primary, in state, district and local races, will be flashed on a big screen across the street; and the usual Election Extra will be issued about midnight. It will be sold in the city, but will be distributed free to mail subscribers in place of the regular Wednesday morning mail edition.

Election officials all over Hempstead county are asked to co-operate by telephoning The Star (Hope 768 Collect) the returns from their precincts as soon as completed Tuesday night.

Allies Pound Jap Bases In Effort to Halt Any Enemy Invasion Attempt

By The Associated Press

In the Pacific war theater, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today that Allied warplanes blasted Japan's expanded positions in New Guinea while United Nations ground patrols maintained contact with the enemy.

Military dispatches said the Japanese had advanced nearly 50 miles inland since their landing last week at Buna Mission, across the mountainous, 120-mile-wide Papua peninsula from the key Allied outpost at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

The next few days, it was said, probably would disclose whether the invaders planned a land assault on Port Moresby, which would be a convenient springboard for a Japanese attempt to invade Australia.

Small forces of Japanese bombers twice raided Darwin in northern Australia last night, while an enemy flying boat which attempted to attack Townsville, far down on the northeast Australian coast, was driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said ground patrol activity was in progress near Oivi, between Kokoda and Buna, in New Guinea, where some American troops are known to be stationed.

On the China front, a Chinese spokesman said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies had widened their reopened gap on the Nanchang-Hangchow railway to 50 miles after the Japanese claimed to have occupied their key rail line completely.

Luftwaffe Hits English Town

London, July 28 —(AP)—Birmingham, big British industrial center in the Midlands, was bombed last night in an attack which cost the Germans eight out of 50 to 70 raiders, and incendiaries fell in the greater London district which has its first night alarm since June 3.

A ninth German bomber was reported shot down this morning off the southwest coast.

"Enemy action last night was on a somewhat larger scale than for some time past," a communiqué said. "Fires and damage were caused in the Birmingham area where there also were a number of casualties."

Scattered bombings caused some damage elsewhere through the Midlands and eastern counties.

Many fires were started in Birmingham and casualties were reported. The greatest damage was sustained by homes and shops and a large hospital was emptied when a delayed action bomb fell nearby.

In an adjacent locality the post office was demolished and residential areas hit. Rescue squads worked until past dawn bringing out those trapped in the debris.

A number of fire bombs fell in fields near London but no damage was reported. A time bomb fell in a park.

Other German craft were over north England, coastal areas of southwest England and in East Anglia.

The RAF's bombers, which Sunday night pummeled the German port of Hamburg in a 600-plane assault, stayed home last night.

London's anti-aircraft batteries were in action for a considerable period and planes were heard flying over the capital, but no bombs were dropped.

Hundreds of Londoners watched the brilliant display of anti-aircraft fire in the moonlit sky.

Court Questions Process of Nazi Saboteur Trial

—Washington

Washington, July 28 —(AP)—A possibility that President Roosevelt's wartime powers might be tested by the United States Supreme Court arose today as the nation's highest tribunal interrupted its summer recess to determine whether any of the alleged Nazi saboteurs on trial before a secret military commission are entitled to the processes prescribed by the bill of rights.

Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone announced through the court clerk that a special term would be held tomorrow so that counsel for "certain of" the prisoners may apply for habeas corpus writs. If the court should decide to entertain the petitions, and then grant them, the case might be transferred to a federal district court.

In appointing a military commission to try the eight suspects secretly "for offenses against the law of war and the articles of war," President Roosevelt issued a proclamation denying any appeal to civil courts by persons who have entered the country since the war for the purpose of committing hostile acts against the government.

Informal persons, who withheld the use of their names, said petitions would be presented on behalf of seven of the eight defendants, whose testimony was completed before the military tribunal yesterday after a 16 day hearing. It was conjectured unofficially that the eighth defendant was George John Dasch, who has been represented by separate counsel.

The men are accused of coming ashore from Nazi submarines to blow up American war installations.

Presumably the high court, which is convening from vacation retreats in various parts of the country, might decide first whether it has any right even to receive the petitions before it can pass on the question of jurisdiction.

A month after Pearl Harbor, the court refused to act on a suit brought by the Italian ambassador for recovery of a tanker seized by this country, explaining that "war suspends the right of enemy plaintiffs to prosecute actions in our courts."

The tanker Brennero was taken over by the government at Hoboken, N. J., in March 1941, after its crew had sabotaged the machinery. The ambassador, Prince Don Ascanio Colonna, in a suit filed prior to the declaration of war, contended Italian government and therefore entitled to the benefit of Italy's sovereign immunity from suit.

When the case came before the supreme court, after hostilities began, the tribunal did not rule one way or the other on this claim, but cited the trading with the Enemy Act which says that no suit is authorized to be prosecuted "in any court within the United States by an enemy or ally of enemy prior to the end of the war," except in the case of patent and copyright suits.

The act provides, however, that "an enemy or ally of an enemy may defend by counsel any suit in

Treatment of U. S. Citizens Is Checked

Washington, July 28 —(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said the government was assembling all possible information on the treatment of Americans in Japanese hands.

Until the complete picture is at hand, Hull told his press conference, he would prefer not to comment on the situation.

New German Forces Hurlled Into Battle

—Europe

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, July 28 —(AP)—Germany's mechanized might drove into the north Caucasus today over widened bridgeheads across the Don south of Tsimlyansk and the broken defenses of Novocherkassk and Rostov in the gravest moment of the entire war for the Soviet union.

Into their bid for conquest of the Caucasus—Russia's oil barrel and supply bridge to the south—the Germans hurled forces which Red Star, organ of the Russian army, said were "many times superior" to the number of the defenders.

Another tremendous battle raged toward a climax deep in the Don bend at the approaches to Stalingrad and the Volga. A dispatch to Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said 8,000 Germans were killed in a single sector.

Hammering toward the last rail line linking Stalingrad to the Caucasus, the Germans were said to have made a new crossing in the Don-Tsimlyansk sector, where the Don flows within 50 miles of the railway.

The defenders of Stalingrad, however, were reported to have repulsed repeated tank and motorized infantry attacks, and the Don's big bend close to the mighty Volga.

(The German high command said its forces had widened and deepened their penetrations south of the Don and had reached or crossed the river along virtually the entire eastward bend.)

Compulsory Savings Plan

Washington, July 28 —(AP)—A New York merchant urged the Senate Finance committee today to siphon off 25 to 30 billion dollars "surplus purchasing power" from the public through a compulsory savings plan designed to curb inflation.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he agreed with the witness, Julian Goldman, that compulsory savings would serve better than taxes to take up the increase in national purchasing power.

"The thing that worries me is the machinery," Taft said. Goldman said that despite price ceilings, inflationary trends already are apparent and "black markets are being created."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) told other members of the committee that limiting individual incomes to $25,000 a year would yield only enough additional revenue to foot the nation's war bills four days and 10 hours.

Vandenberg said he presented the estimate, in the hearings on the bill to raise $271,000,000 in new taxes, to demonstrate just what might be expected from such a limitation.

He said the treasury department made the estimate, at his request, reporting that $660,000,000 additional revenue could be expected if a $25,000 limit were established and the tax rates voted by the house were retained.

President Roosevelt has suggested the $25,000 figure as the most an individual should have left over after paying his taxes during the war.

Continuing its public hearings to receive the suggestions of taxpayers, the committee heard Benjamin C. Marsh of the people's lobby, a private organization which Congress did not adopt a pay-as-we-go plan to finance the war, "a commission should be created to study the tactics and technique of repudiation—that is the alternative."

Austria Starts World War I

By The Associated Press

An anniversary passed without notice in warring Europe today was that of the Austrian declaration of war on Serbia 28 years ago.

Austria, dissatisfied with amendments Serbia was willing to make for the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Sarajevo, took the first belligerent step in a conflict which became World War No. 1 and which ultimately resulted in the dismemberment of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy.

The archduke, heir to Franz Josef's throne, and his wife were slain by Gavrilo Princip on June 28, 1914, on a street in Sarajevo, where Franz Ferdinand was making a state visit.

On July 23, 1914, Austria presented an ultimatum listing sweeping demands. She insisted on a purge of all elements in Serbia hostile to the Hapsburg monarchy, and demanded that Austrian officers be allowed to conduct the purge.

Serbia made far-reaching concessions. But they were inadequate, Austria held, and war was declared July 28, 1914, a month after the assassination.

By the end of 1914 there were more used-car motorists in the United States than new-car buyers.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

All Quiet

Willes-Barre, Pa. — Two patrol men crept on hands and knees to a warehouse in an attempt to surprise a pair of boys ransacking the place. One kicked in the door and shouted "you're under arrest!"

The boys kept right on working. They themselves, the cops recovered and grabbed the pair. One twisted free and wrote on a pad: "What's up?"

"You're under arrest," the law repeated — in writing. It took sergeant 45 minutes of heavy pencil work to book two deaf mute brothers on charges of burglary.

Wrong Plug

Nahunta, Ga. — C. H. Calhoun, high school vocational teacher, replaced his automobile with a horse which he named "ration."

Making his round of farms in the neighborhood, he pulled up at one during a heavy rain storm and stopped by the garage. A low-hanging light bulb caught the horse's fancy and he bit into it. He was electrocuted.

Japanese, Germans Have Decided on Post-War Plans

Hitler's Plan Is for Gestapo to Rule World

By DOWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

As the great battle for the Caucasus swells to the peak of the crisis upon which the outcome of the war may depend, and Allied fortunes swing precariously in the balance, Providence has spurred us to renewed efforts by making further disclosures of the extent of the Nazi and Japanese designs upon the freedom of the world.

For instance we have the German government broadcasting that Japanese Prime Minister General Tojo declared in a public speech "Japan is determined to destroy the United States and Great Britain." When Tojo talks of destroying the two great western powers he, of course, refers to destruction of their sovereignty.

Now that's merely a reiteration of the program of the bloody-minded Jap militarists who knifed America in the back. You may recall that even before Nippon performed this barbaric act of perfidy, Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander in chief of the combined fleets of his country, stated that "I am looking forward to dictating peace to the United States in the White House at Washington."

Yamamoto is a fanatical patriot who works for a new world order in which the Anglo-Saxon powers would be inferior to Japan. A better picture of what this means comes from the current disclosures by American newspapermen just repatriated from imprisonment in Japan. The treatment they reveal, coupled with previous authenticated reports of atrocities against the prisoners, and the literal enslavement of hundreds of thousands of conquered Chinese, do not leave much room for doubt as to what our fate would be if Japan won this war.

Even more illuminating and also shocking, however, is the information contained in documents made public by the British information service in New York with the announcement that they were found on captured German prisoners in Libya. One of these papers is a secret memorandum from the German high command, and the other is a statement by Hitler on post-war plans.

These documents depict a world in which the conquered nations are to be permanently deprived of their freedom. They are to be made vassals of Germany. Hitler's statement recognizes that these vanquished peoples wouldn't be well disposed to the Reich, and he therefore has made provision for the creation of a best police force of Elite Guard (S. S.) soldiers who would wield the lash over the unhappy bondsmen.

This means that Hitler wouldn't trust control of the conquered peoples to his regular army. And his statement further makes it clear that he wouldn't trust control of the German people themselves to the regular army, indicating anticipation of possible trouble at home. Says the Nazi all highest:

"It must never again be tolerated in the future that the German armed forces conscripted from the whole people should be sent into action against their own fellow citizens. Such a step is the beginning of the end. A state which is compelled to resort to these measures itself incapable of sending its armed forces into action against the exterior foe, and thereby abdicates."

Thus Hitler proposes to create a great personal Gestapo from hand-picked men who are fanatical followers of the political philosophy of the chief anti-Christ. There can be no doubt what this would mean, for we see the workings of Hitler's mind in the actions of the present Gestapo which has been directing the butchery of untold thousands in the occupied countries.

What a difference between this Axis projected world, in which Christianity would be killed if possible, and the recent pronouncements from Secretary of State Cordell Hull and British Foreign Secretary Eden, reaffirming the purpose of the United Nations to create a new world of freedom, equality and brotherly love.

23rd Producer for Midway

Stamps, July 27—The 23rd producer was added today in the new Midway field of Lafayette county as Arkansas Fuel Oil Company's Turbine No. 1, center southwest section, 12-15-24, was gauged at 108 barrels over a 12-hour period on quarter-inch choke. Top of porosity is 6,383 feet, total depth is 6,470 feet.

Barnsdall Oil Company expects to try for completion tomorrow at its McClaine No. 3, center southwest section, 12-15-24, after production pipe was set Friday. Top of oil saturation is 6,500 feet with a depth of 6,512 feet. Barnsdall does not have a gauge on its most recent producer, the McClaine No. 2, center southwest section, 12-15-24, which flowed last week-end.

Sugar is the principal export of the Dominican Republic, representing three-fifths of the productive wealth.

Market Report

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, July 28 —(AP) War news from the Russian front and anti-inflation activity in Washington combined to depress grain prices today. Wheat dropped about a cent.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson conferred at the White House with President Roosevelt, but traders remained in the dark as to the extent of that program and its effect on agricultural commodities.

Wheat led the downturn, and, although sporadic attempts were made to rally the market, prices were never able to get back to the preceding session's close. A further break in cotton added to the uneasiness in grains.

The close was at the day's lows. Wheat finished off 1-1/2 3-8 cent, September $1.17 7-8, $1.18, December $1.21 1-4 - 3-8, and corn was down 1-2 - 3-4 cent, September 89 12 - 58, Oats fell 58 1 cent, rye declined 58 - 34 cent and soybeans were unchanged to 1-8 lower.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, July 28 —(AP)—As the ticker tape watchers figured it out, the general stability of today's stock market indicated a lot of discounting or that the list had become pretty well immunized to bad war news.

While there was little disposition to work up a genuine rally, bearish implication of the fall of Rostov to the Nazis failed to bring out a y important liquidation. The worst that could be said of the proceedings was that leaders moved over a narrowly irregular course. From the start shifts generally were in minor fractions either way. Few weak spots were in evidence in the closing hour and modest plus marks were well distributed. Dealings were moderately active in the forenoon but slackened to a dribble later. Transfers were around 250,000 shares.

The Arkansas Negro Democratic Association, claiming representation of 10,000 Negro Democrats, instructed its member here, at Pine Bluff and Forrest City to attempt to vote despite a party regulation.

Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey of Russell, restricting primary voting privileges to "qualified white electors," ville, seeking the nomination in the fifth (central) congressional district, criticized Brooks Hays, former farm security administration official of Little Rock in large-sized newspaper advertisements for participation in the 1938 Birmingham, Ala. convention of the southern conference for human welfare at which an anti-Jim Crow law resolution was adopted. Bailey, Hays, Oscar Winn and A. L. Rotenberry, the latter two from Little Rock, are campaigning for the seat of Congressman David D. Terry who is a candidate for Senator.

Hays, replying with newspaper advertising to Bailey's criticisms, declared he was not present the day the resolution was adopted and criticized Bailey for raising the racial issue "at a time when civic groups and unselfish citizens are bending every effort to keep down friction."

Negro leaders and white authorities said they did not anticipate trouble. Dr. J. M. Robinson, Little Rock physician and A. N. D. A. president, cautioned his followers to "bow politely and leave without ado" if they were refused a ballot. Dr. Robinson instructed the Negroes to vote only for candidates for U. S. Senator and congressman.

The A. N. D. A. took the position that a 1941 supreme court decision, holding that state primary elections and nominations conventions were subject to federal regulation insofar as they applied to candidates for federal offices, a 1930 decision that held the Arkansas Democratic party had the same right to restrict its membership as did fraternal and similar organizations.

Terry, Attorney General Jack Holt, Congressman Clyde T. Ellis, and Former Congressman John L. McClellan are seeking the Senatorial nomination.

J. W. (Bill) Fulbright, former University of Arkansas president; Karl Greenhaw, an associate supreme court justice, and Virgil Willis, Harrison attorney, are rivals for Ellis' third district congressional seat.

Gov. Homer M. Adkins, who has made no formal campaign, is opposed for renomination by Dr. Fred Keller, Conway educator and economist; Bill Neill, Little Rock, and Vernon Heath, Little Rock. The latter two have made no organized campaign but Keller has made between 20 and 30 speeches a week and used quantities of newspaper advertising in his bid.

and 1940; native sons like General Brehon Somervell, General Douglas MacArthur, heroes like lawyer, author-soldier, Albert Pike. Now Arkansas began to flap its wings and tell the world.

The State declared war on denigrating Native Son Bob Burns, forced him to return to a Little Rock mass meeting and explain. He promised to present "a truly sympathetic character" in the movies, subsequently withdrew from Paramount's scheduled Wizard of Oz film because it caricatured his native State. When Paramount sued, all Arkansas rose in Burns' defense.

Tourists flocking this week to Arkansas' rolling, postcard-pretty Ouachita forests found a brave new Arkansas: aggressive, full of vinegar. Its citizens spoke right up, dead sure that Arkansas was not the worst State but the best. Said cocky Governor Homer M. Adkins: "Arkansians are now awake to the vast wealth and attractiveness of their State." Said reformed Renegade Bob Burns: "Now take my Uncle Doug. He used to walk barefoot on a barbed-wire fence with a wildcat under each arm. You know Doug—Douglas MacArthur."

Dangerous Talk

Elliot E. Simpson is one of the most dangerous men in the United States today. Not because he is vicious or unpatriotic, dishonest or willfully harmful. Nobody who has met the man and studied his activities alleges such faults.

Mr. Simpson is a major menace to the nation's success in war because he is an openly avowed evangel of a doctrine which—if he can make enough converts—may help the axis defeat the United Nations.

Elliot Simpson, you remember, is the New York rubber importer who has been retained as counsel by a congressional committee which is studying the rubber situation. He speaks with that quasi authority which comes from his official connection. Because he is associated with a legislative committee, the public assumes that the floodgates of cosmic wisdom have been opened for his benefit and, through him, for ours.

His thesis is that there is no rubber famine. He says that if no natural rubber were imported, and no synthetic manufactured, by reclaiming waste we could provide for all our rubber needs during the next five years, including tires for pleasure driving.

He contends that, in addition, there are all but limitless resources of rubber in Latin America which we could tap at will.

He charges that the appearance of a rubber crisis has been created, permitted to exist, by four big rubber companies so they can kill off minor league competition and intensify the monopoly they already possess.

We are not going to defend the Big Four of the rubber industry, or to venture a guess whether they have been and are working toward a monopoly.

The important fact is this: We can't afford to proceed now on any theory that Simpson is right.

If he is correct, we are going to have more rubber than we need; we are going to have wasted hundreds of millions of dollars; and the men responsible, in or out of the rubber industry, are going to be in a very unpleasant doghouse for a very long time.

But if Simpson is wrong, and we cancel or delay too long our preparations for supplying the rubber for military needs, including the transportation of war workers and war goods and of essential civilian supplies, we shall lose this war.

Simpson is the only "rubber expert" who claims there is not a rubber shortage. We cannot gamble this war on the chance that he may be right and the world may be wrong.

The Simpson menace lies in the fact that the agitation he has created and is stimulating is delaying our preparations to provide rubber. It is a danger as great as—if less pressing than—the German advance in Russia.

Little Rock, vied for the supreme court seat. The candidates for the land commissioner are John Page, Farmer Taylor, Claude Rankin, Iru J. Golden and E. D. Woodburn.

Little Rock, July 28 —(AP)—The Arkansas Negro Democratic Association instructed its members in Little Rock, Pine Bluff and Forrest City to attempt to vote today in the state's democratic preferential primary election despite a party regulation restricting primary voting to "qualified white electors."

Negro leaders and white authorities said they did not anticipate trouble.

Dr. J. M. Robinson, Little Rock physician and president of the A. N. D. A., which claims a membership of 10,000 — told his followers to "bow politely and leave without ado," if they were refused a ballot. Police Chief J. A. Pitcock instructed Little Rock policemen to "keep a close watch around the polls."

Robinson told Negroes to vote only for candidates for the U. S. Senate and the House of Representatives. The Negro association said it was relying on a 1941 supreme court decision, holding that primary elections and nominating conventions were subject to federal regulation insofar as they applied to candidates for federal offices. It claimed the decision superceded a 1930 court ruling that the Arkansas Democratic party had the same right to restrict its membership as fraternal and similar organizations.

The racial issue was raised by Negroes and a candidate for congress.

Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey of Russellville, seeking the nomination in the fifth (central) congressional district, criticized one of his opponents, Brooks Hays, for taking part in the 1938 Birmingham, Ala., convention of the Southern Conference of Human Welfare which adopted an anti-Jim Crow law resolution.

Hays, replying to Bailey's criticisms, declared he was not present when the anti-Jim Crow law resolution was adopted, and criticized Bailey for raising the racial issue "at a time when civic groups and unselfish citizens are bending every effort to keep down friction."

At stake today are nominations for senator, Third and Fifth district congress seats, governor, land commissioner and a supreme court seat. The polls open at 8 a.m. (Central War Time) and close at 6:30 p.m.

AVG Vets Join Supply Planes

By DANIEL DELUCE
Caleutta, July 28 — (AP) — They could paint a flying tiger on the big, green cargo planes of China's national airline and not be far wrong.

For all of the "Flying Tiger" pilots who finished their fighting contracts with the American Volunteer Group which served the Chinese army, the China National Aviation Corporation has now signed approximately 60 per cent to operate transports over one of the most mountainous and storm-ridden routes in the world, linking isolated China with Allied supplies in India.

Some of the pilots have joined the United States Army Air Force in China which took over from the AVG on July 1.

The China corporation's veteran captain pilot, Charles Sharp of Fort Worth, Texas, released today the names of 29 American volunteer fliers who have joined the airline's staff. Fifteen of them will start work almost immediately while the remainder will return to China after a few months home leave in the United States.

In addition to the pilots the airline employed Dr. Lewis Richards the volunteer group's famed "bomb proof" surgeon, and four of the group's mechanics.

Of the old volunteer group's three squadron leaders, Bob Neale of Seattle and Arvid Olson of Chicago and Los Angeles, have completed contracts. The third, David Lee Hill of San Antonio, Tex., now is a major in the United States Army Air Force in China.

The following fifteen veterans of the volunteer group are now active pilots of the National Airline: Francis Adkins, Miami Beach, Fla.; Cliff Groh, Wilmette, Ill.; Robert Hedman, Webster, S. D.; Fred Hodges, Memphis, Tenn.; Chauncey Laughlin, Ashland, Mo.; Robert Moss, Doerun, Ga.; Erikson Shilling, Washington, D. C.; Ernest Leone, Presque Isle, Me.; Joe Rosbert, Seattle; Van Shapard, Chatsanooga, Tenn.; Allen Wright, Dyersburg, Tenn.; Harry Bolster, Bayton, Tex.; Robert Raines, Reno, Nev.; J. Dean, St. Peter, Minn.; and Einar Nickelson, Fergus Falls, Minn.

Film Families of Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — What's going on here? Just this: you and you are being invited right into the Hollywood family.

You know how it is with families. They have their little jokes. Family stuff, that isn't funny to outsiders who don't know the background, but is a scream to the inmates.

The Hollywood family has its little jokes, too. It is spreading them on the screen, which is where you and you come in. If you haven't been coming in often, you won't know what they are about. So here is an advance course to facilitate polite laughter at the proper moment:

Two years ago this line wouldn't have been in Ginger Rogers' picture, "The Major and the Minor." Ginger at a school dance is told, "There's an epidemic among the girls — they all think they are Veronica Lake." The camera pans to 20 girls who wear the Lake one-eyed coiffure, or peak-a-boo bang.

The Lake bang is a gag in one of the Lake's own pictures, "I Married a Witch." The film ends with Veronica the mother of a little girl who wears her hair over one eye. In "Star Spangled Rhythm" Bob Hope, as himself, explains he can't keep an engagement: "I've a very important date. Veronica Lake is going to show me her other eye."

You can see that this is all in the family. Intimate. If you can believe the screen, George Raft has been getting pretty confidential, too. Playing George Raft in "Broadway" and telling a story about George Raft's good old days on the Main Stem before he got into pictures.

Hope and Bing Crosby practically ask you to dinner in that "Star Spangled Rhythm." If you don't know how many times you've seen them, usually as pals and feudists, you may not get it.

To get their family joke in "Rhythm" you have to know that

BANNERS FLYING

THE STORY: Christie Colton has promised her fiancé, Bart, to marry him in five days. Bart, an air enthusiast himself, is preoccupied with his work. Christie is in a hurry to get married, but she is about to tell her shy twin sister, Jan, that she is engaged. Jan confesses she is on the brink of falling in love herself. From Jan's description, Christie decides the man isn't too interesting.

EMERGENCY FLIGHT
CHAPTER IV
CHRISTIE had a noon luncheon date with Bart. Meanwhile, he was spending the morning with his mother, and Christie was meeting with a committee on the Fete of the Lanterns, a benefit for Chinese relief.

A group of her friends—Ellen Wells, Roberta Barlow, Elaine Richardson, and Sue Foster, had already arrived. And—Christie paused a moment in the doorway as a shock of surprise ran through her—another girl! A girl with a cloud of dark hair framing her thin face, a cigaret between her poppy-red lips.

"Christie," Mildred exclaimed, "we're really in luck. This is Sandra Rydall. She spent some months in China once, and she has the grandest ideas. Wait until you hear them."

"Yes, we have," Christie replied, "at the dance last night."

"You run into so many people at dances," Sandra said with a low laugh, "and sometimes there is a crowd."

Roberta spoke up: "Sounds like Bart Sanderson was around. You are new in this town, Sandra, but it won't take you long to learn."

"One of those romances that haven't yet become routine," Sandra said, slowly. Only Christie caught the emphasis on the "yet." And that, she was sure, was because she was looking for it.

Poise completely restored, she spoke easily: "Stop chattering, Roberta, and let's get started. I've a luncheon date." She turned to Sandra: "So you have some ideas?"

"I'm filled with them," Sandra answered. "I don't know yet that they'll work." Again, that odd emphasis.

"I'd like to hear them. We're here to plan decorations, you know."

"That's one of the ideas," Sandra's eyes met Christie's without smiling. Mildred was looking startled.

thought. She felt a little ashamed. Perhaps, she was at fault. Maybe, Sandra had sensed her resentment in the beginning. She remembered Bart had said, "Aren't you a little unfair? You don't even know her."

Well, she knew Sandra could be cheap. Her manners were not only unconventional, they were rude. But she was here, offering to help.

Sandra's ideas were good, she had to admit. There'd be the ball, of course, with everybody wearing Chinese costumes. Then, in another room—to draw the older crowd—all the Chinese art treasures that could be borrowed in and around Westwood would be displayed. Maybe there'd be a special corner for Chinese fans.

"Why it's wonderful," Christie exclaimed.

She began appointing committees. Sandra would head the decorations committee. Another group would collect the art objects, and another would arrange for insurance on them.

"I must dash now," Christie said, glancing at her wrist watch. When she reached the porch, she heard a step behind her. Sandra had followed.

"Just a moment," Sandra said. "I wanted to say something to you. You and I needn't pretend. You know I'm not interested in the ball. I don't care whether it's success or not. It rather amused me to show up a lot of superior people. That's all. Behind all that show of good will in there, you really don't like me, and you. This is just to keep the record straight from now on."

"Why are you so sure we couldn't be friends?" Christie asked, slowly.

"We happen to care for the same man," Sandra said, bluntly. The sheer audacity of it, caught Christie off guard. Girls didn't do things like this—nice girls didn't.

"I have been living abroad for years," Sandra said. "Things weren't easy—lots of times I learned to be ruthless. And I learned to grab. Things are happening so fast now, if you don't grab all the fun and happiness you can, you're likely to be too late."

"I see," Christie fought the primitive impulse to cry out: "But it won't do you any good here, Sandra. You are in a different world, where people still live by a different set of rules."

Without a word, she turned and walked toward her car.

ON an impulse, she slowed down. She still had a few moments to spare before time to meet Bart. She'd drive by and tell Russ she was through with flying.

Bill Blake hurried out to meet her. "Gosh, Christie, I'm glad you're here. You're an answer to prayer."

"What's the matter, Bill? Anything serious?"

"Serious as hell," Bill answered. "They phoned from the local hospital, they're sending an emergency case here. Concussion from an automobile accident. They think this guy needs a brain operation and they're rushing him to Lakeville to some chap there who specializes in brain surgery."

"If I could reach Bart," Christie said.

"There's no time to get anybody," Bill said. "This chap's got to go now. They wanted the plane warmed up and waiting. You'll have to take him over, Christie. I know you can. You couldn't miss. Just follow the highway. They're keeping everything wide and clear at the other end."

"But I couldn't," Christie said, trembling. "Oh, Bill, why can't you fly?"

"Because I never learned. I know what takes them up, but I can't take them up. Funny, isn't it?"

"It isn't funny," Christie said, "it's dreadful. But I might crack up and kill him, Bill."

Bill shrugged. "Well, he'll probably die, anyway, unless he gets to this surgeon. It's only 60 miles, Christie. You've got to do it. There's the ambulance, now."

"Warm her up, Bill," she said. "They were lifting the injured man from the ambulance. Christie walked over and looked down on him. He was young, and he had good features. His blond hair showed above the wide, thick bandage that bound his head.

As she watched, pity in her eyes, the wounded man opened his eyes. He was looking at Christie with a queer, bewildered expression. After a moment, the bewilderment was gone. "Oh, it's you," the stranger said. He closed his eyes again.

"Know this chap?" the hospital attendant asked. "Relative of yours?"

"I never saw him before," Christie answered. "He must be dangerous."

The attendant shook his head. "I think it's the first conscious moment he's had since the accident. Where's the pilot?"

"I'm the pilot," Christie said. She saw the amazement and doubt on the faces about her. Suddenly, she felt a surge of confidence.

"I'll get him there," she said. (To Be Continued.)

War Thoughts in Washington

Washington—Thoughts in War-time:

The war is really giving John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers fits on their convention plans. Their first idea was that the October convention city would be Washington and they bid for space in a new capital hotel.

Priorities, labor shortages, etc. (one of the ceteras being a honey of a fire that ran riot through several floors of the superstructure; now make it appear that the hotel won't be completed in time.

The UMW shifted to Atlantic City, made reservations there for their 1,000 or 1,500 delegates and the several thousand others expected to show. Then along came the Army and took over those buildings for training quarters.

Cincinnati is the latest choice—but it isn't the city that's worrying the UMW managers now as much as transportation facilities. No one would be surprised here if any day now, the Office of Defense Transportation came out with an order putting a ban on all conventions for the duration.

Speaking of labor: The Navy which has been ahead of the Bing worked an hour in the Hope-Maeleine Carroll film, "My Favorite Blonde." Even if it is asking a lot of a busy world, you have to know it. Bing was in that picture the fellow beside the lamp post who gave directions to Hope. Bob rushed away, then paused for a "double take," shook his head and said, "No, it can't be."

In "Rhythm" the boys play themselves — movie stars — just like most of the stars in the east. Bing started work first. In his first scene Betty Hutton asks his help on a Navy show: "I can get Bob Hope, but what's Hope without Crosby?" Bing, family-style, then counters: "Oh, you must have seen 'My Favorite Blonde.' I had to jump in and put him over in that picture, all right." Bing cocked up the line himself.

Came Hope's turn, and Betty Hutton asks Hope's help on the Navy show, saying she already has Crosby. Says Bob: "Oh, that cheese salesman. I used him in my picture, 'My Favorite Blondes.' I like to throw jobs his way when I can. You know those kids of his eat like horses." Bob cocked up the line himself, after hearing about Bing's.

Hope and Bing Crosby practically ask you to dinner in that "Star Spangled Rhythm." If you don't know how many times you've seen them, usually as pals and feudists, you may not get it.

To get their family joke in "Rhythm" you have to know that

United Nations' Commander?

Talk in Washington has it that the United Nations soon will have a supreme commander with most likely candidate being our Gen. George C. Marshall.

Army in a lot of things, but far behind in its "labor relations," has finally decided to do something about it.

I have set up a new "Incentive Section," with Admiral Clark Woodward in charge, and Lieutenant Commander Sam Singer, as his assistant. The new section has taken offices in the sumptuous old Anderson mansion on Massachusetts which until recently was the headquarters of the Society of the Cincinnati. I asked one of Washington's ace labor observers what he thought the Navy section is planning to do. "I don't know," he answered, "but if they'll just see to it that when those 'E' awards are made for outstanding production in naval contract plans and shipyards, some of the commendatory remarks include the laborers as well as the management, they'll go a long way toward improving labor relations."

Byron Nelson Finally Cops Golf Tourney

By GAYLE TALBOT
Chicago, July 28—(AP)—Byron Nelson, one of the greatest of modern linksmen, was a homeward bound today with $2,500 in his hip pocket, once again having demonstrated that when the big money is on the line he virtually is unbeatable.

The demonstration came as the grand finale to that golfing circus known as the Tam O'Shanter $15,000 Open tournament.

Yesterday Nelson crushed big Clayton Heafner of Durham, N. C., by four strokes in their 18-hole playoff for the championship of the ditziest of all golf events. The pair tied at the end of the regular 72 holes, with totals of 280.

As though to atone for his unaccountable lapse of the previous day, when he soared to an inglorious 77 on the fourth round, the ex-Texan took Tam O'Shanter's soggy across apart with a 67—five under par—to send Heafner down for the count.

Not that Heafner weakened. The big fellow stayed in there gamely all the way to score his 71.

Although he has not been the country's top money winner the last few years—his chum, Ben Hogan, holding that distinction—Nelson has shown a remarkable propensity for capturing the really big purses. He has finished in the money in 39 consecutive tournaments over a period of 18 months.

Most of the professionals already were in St. Paul today, practicing for the $5,000 open tournament to start Thursday.

Sports Roundup

By SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting for Hugh Fuller-ton, Jr.)
Wide World Sports Columnist
New York, July 28—National leaguers, who can't easily forget what's been happening to them in the last few world series and all-star games, aren't losing a chance to rub it in how much better they are doing than the American league when it comes to raising money on army-navy relief games. One of them, who doesn't want to be quoted, claims that when Detroit set aside a Sunday game with Cleveland as its contribution, there was a meeting at Chicago at which the choice was "voted." . . . He leaves it to you to guess who did the voting. . . . golf writers, who like to tell about the cool, neverless by Byron Nelson plays his shots, may not know that after he missed a 10-inch putt for a winner in the P.G.A. tournament he actually was sick. And he probably didn't feel much better after blowing that four-footer Sunday, that was tagged with $2,500 first money in the Tam O'Shanter open.

Rationed Racing

After visiting around up north, this dept. is convinced that the Saratoga folks have a lot of nerve trying to run racing as usual and that if the meeting is successful they can thank the dough coming from war industries in such nearby places as Schenectady. . . . standard complaint in the resort country is that there's no tourist money this year.

Today's Guest Star

Zipp Newman, Birmingham News: "For a last place club, the Washington Senators must be the top drawing club for what they are giving the customers. It just goes to show how they haven't any places to go in Washington except Griffith stadium."

Service Dept.

Lieut. Joe Root, all American guard of the Texas Aggies, is at Fort Benning, Ga., taking a course in heavy weapons. He should be giving it. . . . John Hubbell, Carl's kid brother who is a fair country pitcher himself although he could not make the big leagues, has joined the Enid (Okla.) army flying school.

Jim's Prize Pupil

Mike Tresh of the White Sox, currently rated as the American League's No. 1 umpire upbraider, recently irritated one ump so much that the arbiter broke down and asked why he said so many mean things. . . . Without cracking a smile, Mike explained, "I really don't like to do it but my boss, Jimmy Dykes, makes me do it." . . . Dykes denies the whole story and says he's kept busy thinking of things to call 'em himself.

One-Minute Sports Page

Cy Blanton has had two big league offers since he returned to Shawnee, Okla., to recuperate from an operation. He may be flinging in the big show again late in August. . . . A little thing like a war hasn't kept the British board of boxing control from asking the New York commission if it would agree to recognize a fight between two English flyweights, Johnny Kane and Jackie Patterson, as being for the world championship. Kane is the B.B.B.C. champ while New York doesn't recognize any.

Bettina, Dorazio to Go 10 Rounds Tonight

Philadelphia, July 28—(AP)—Melio Bettina's on deck for his last fight for the duration and he's hoping—for his parents' sake—his 10-round bout with Gus Dorazio goes through tonight at Shibe Park.

Weather caused postponement of battle last night and should the same barrier come up again, it'll be a much sadder Bettina family when the Beacon, N. Y., heavyweight enters the Army Thursday at Camp Upton, L. I.

Melio, former light heavyweight champion, has planned to turn over his entire purse to his parents to keep them comfortable while he's in the Army.

Five Navy Men Escape Japs

Somewhere in Australia, July 28—(AP)—Five U. S. naval officers who escaped from the Philippines in a primitive native outrigger sailing boat just a step ahead of the Japanese arrived yesterday in Australia after an adventurous two months' journey.

They sailed for weeks in their small craft with their only navigation aids an alarm clock, a compass, a page torn from a schoolbook atlas and a radio that worked part of the time. Eventually they were picked up by a ship and brought here.

The five, deeply tanned, in good spirits and in good health, are: Lieut. Commander Alexander Slimmons, Los Angeles; Lieut. Carl Parris, Atlanta, Ga.; Lieut. Ellis P. Skoffield, Asheville, N. C.; Lieut. (Junior Grade) Daniel Cordrey, Baltimore; and Lieut. (Junior Grade) William Lipsett, New Bedford, Mass.

Slimmons said the five officers left Cavite naval base separately for Batan and Corregidor and were re-united again on the island of Cebu on a confidential mission. The Japanese came to the island the morning of April 9. The officers got away that afternoon with a small crew of Filipinos.

Schools Help Toughen Men

By JOHN H. COLBURN

Cincinnati, July 28—(AP)—American schools are helping the Navy and Army "toughen up" the nation's boys and young men.

Colleges will do the job as part of a broad war-time athletic program, said four conference commissioners meeting here today to discuss war's effects on athletics. They expect high schools, many of which will have to curtail interscholastic activity, to set up rigorous intramural programs.

War uncovered a need for a "hardening" program and the commissioners pointed out that the Navy and Army met the problem by stressing combative, personal-contact athletics like football, soccer, wrestling and boxing.

"It took a war to show us how soft most men were," observed James W. St. Clair, Southwestern conference head.

Said Reaves E. Peters, big six commissioner: "Give boys rudiments of a physical fitness program in high school, and the colleges can toughen them up."

Commissioners of the Southeastern and Southern conferences, as well as St. Clair and Peters, reported that many colleges already have revamped athletic programs to require all male undergraduates—instead of only freshmen and sophomores—to take five to ten hours of intensive physical training weekly. Others are to follow suit.

And instead of de-emphasizing football, it will be stressed even more, as a beneficial, combative sport.

Red Sox Falter Each Time They Near the Top

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Always a bridesmaid, but never a bride seems to describe the Boston Red Sox. They tremble and falter every time they are led to the first place altar of the American League, but they are as full of fury as a woman scorned whenever their right to second place is encroached upon.

Second place was at stake yesterday as they opened a four-game series with the Cleveland Indians. The two foes were deadlocked in games won and lost reckoning, but the Sox had an edge in percentage, .558 to .556.

The Bostons approached the fray with more seriousness than they showed when they had a chance to wrest the lead from the Yankees a few weeks ago.

Manager Joe Cronin shook up his batting order, moving Ted Williams to the third spot and installing himself in the clean-up slot, and he opened with his ace pitcher, Cecil (Tex) Hughson, the tall right-hander who had won ten and lost three.

Although these maneuvers didn't seem to have much bearing on the game—Cronin didn't get a hit in five times at bat and Hughson was pelted for an even dozen safeties—Boston won 8-5.

The Red Sox made 11 hits, two of them triples, three of them doubles, and all of them timely. They never made a hit in an inning without scoring.

They got ahead of Al Milnar in the eighth and polished off the performance with three runs in the ninth off their old teammate, Joe Lefing, who walked two men ahead of a triple by Johnny Pesky, who then came home in a single by Williams.

This was the only game in the major leagues that escaped a rude weatherman. As a result, three doubleheaders were scheduled for the National League today with tension centered on the St. Louis Cardinals' invasion of Brooklyn.

Back in the Fortress' lean body the gunners are stowing their guns and making slurring remarks about the Jap and his fighter plane.

Reiser, Williams Lead Major League Batters

New York, July 28—(AP)—This time in year the National League was suffering tinges of embarrassment whenever batting percentages were considered because Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox was burning the fences with a .400 plus average.

But it is even Stephen now with Williams leading left American league and Pete Reiser of Brooklyn topping the National with identical marks of .354.

Williams took a big lead over Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees during the last week and Reiser shaded Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves to suggest that the 1942 batting championships in both major leagues may go to the same hitters that won them last year.

Gordon, after setting the pace much of the season in his circuit, has slipped to 336 and Lombardi, himself a former batting champion, backed down to 340.

Reporter Boards U. S. Plane for Raid on Japs at Kiska

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of stories by Keith Wheeler, Chicago Times correspondent in the Aleutian Islands. Wheeler, the first accredited correspondent to reach Alaska, was attached to the U. S. fleet and arrived there shortly after the Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor June 3. Aboard Fortress Bomber enroute from Kiska, June 26—Ten minutes ago our bomb bay doors opened and disgorged two tons of dynamite on the Japanese tent city at Kiska island.

Nine minutes and forty-five seconds ago the first bomb struck down there under the mist. At two-second intervals the others followed and laced through Kiska's tundra valley with the insensate fury of TNT.

The yellow painted 500-pound packages have done such work as high explosive and flying steel can do, and by now, one supposes, the living are counting the dead.

Thus another bombing raid on Kiska comes to its successful conclusion as any raid can hope for: in this world's worst flying weather.

had met a Jap fighter over Kiska.

You remembered, too, the bombardier that came over like this ten days ago. A scrap of ack ack got him in the bomb load and he went down like a meteor.

"There's your mountains," the whiskey bombardier said, pointing ahead.

There was Kiska, the plane eased toward it, still climbing. I looked at my watch. Two-forty-three p. m. it said.

The next hour and ten minutes were busy.

The navigator left his charts when we started and now crouches in the tear-drop glass nose we occupy. He squats suddenly and twists the gun in its swivel.

"Here he comes," he says quietly. Out there against the white cloud rack a tiny black speck appeared.

We hold our course and on either flank our other planes spread out, climb above or drop below into attack formation.

The speck is nearer but something's got him. He isn't attacking and it requires a moment of incredulous amazement to realize what he is doing. He's over there by himself—stunning. He's going a pretty Immelman but even to you it seems like a silly way to fight and your suppress a giggle. You wonder whom he's showing off for.

The Jap is out of sight. There's a glimpse of sea toward him but the bay where the Jap ships lie, if they're still here, is solidly covered. You wonder where the fighter has got to and you'd like to know when the ack ack will begin to bloom around you.

Vanished again in the murk but now he is out and he's gone into another of his silly aerial dances. He's still half a mile off but you feel as big as a house and twice as visible out here in the glass nose.

Warns Nitrogen Shortage to Be Greater in 1943

Shortage of nitrogen, which may be greater in 1943 than it was during 1942, can be overcome by Arkansas farmers who plant all the winter legumes they can handle, since a good crop of winter legumes usually adds as much nitrogen per acre to the soil as is contained in 350 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre, reports Oliver L. Adams, county agent.

Farmers who are going to seed bur clover, recommended by the county agent for the heavier soils of Hempstead county, are urged to plant it during late July or early August, because it requires more time for bur clover to germinate than it does for most other crops.

Bur clover should be seeded broadcast at the rate of 5 or 6 bushels of bur clover per acre when planted in row crops. The bur clover may be broadcast without covering or without seedbed preparation. When planted to harvest for seed, the bur clover should be planted with barnyard manure at the rate of about 10 bushels per acre on clean level ground so that it will be easier to sweep up the seed.

Much more satisfactory results may be obtained with bur clover or other winter legumes if they are fertilized with 250 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate per acre at the time of seeding.

Bur clover is also recommended by the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture for early spring pasture. It is best started in pastures by planting at the rate of 4 to 6 pecks of bur clover per acre. The bur clover should be mixed with well-rotted manure at the rate of one part of bur clover to 10 parts of manure. The mixture should not be broadcast, but should be placed about the pasture in shovelfuls.

Further information on bur clover may be obtained from Agricultural Extension Service circulars 423, "Bur Clover."

Waste Fats Are Needed

By MARGUERITE YOUNG

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

New York—Two pounds of fats make shortening enough for biscuits to feed forty healthy fighting soldiers or sailors. Two pounds of fats make enough glycerine to fire five anti-tank shells.

That's the simple arithmetic behind Uncle Sam's big Fats and Greases Salvage Campaign. There is this bit of chemistry to it also: Biscuits require fresh fats, but munitions come out just as deadly with any old drippings or suet or frying oil, so long as it's fat.

In this campaign American citizens in general, and Mrs. Citizen and her maid in particular, are expected to scrape up 500,000,000 pounds of cooking fats this year.

Sounds like a heap? It is. But it's only one-fourth of what went down the drains of American kitchens during an average year in the bad old days of careless waste.

Here's How To Help That didn't matter so much—then—because the nation's larder was overflowing with fats, from both domestic and foreign sources.

Now there isn't plenty—there is only enough, provided that none too much is wasted. In the first place, one-third of what used to come in from overseas arrived from the Philippine Islands. Besides, this year there is going out of the larder, for our own and United Nations' use, over a billion pounds more than went out last year.

So, Uncle Sam asks, save the fats and grease that you might ordinarily throw out. For those waste fats, though inedible, can do war work in such things as those anti-tank shells.

Thus fresh fats will be released for use where they're essential, at home as well as at the front. There will not be such a shortage that Mrs. America will have to make her own soap. She'll be able to get bacon, butter, paint and the many household items that contain fats.

What should Mrs. America do to help?

First, know what to save. Uncle Sam wants:

Pan drippings from roast ham, beef, lamb, poultry. Broiler drippings from steaks, chops, veal, bacon. Deep frying fats—both used animal fats such as lard, and used vegetable fats like the cotton seed oil from fried potatoes, fish, doughnuts.

What to do with them.

Take them to your butcher shop and sell them—that's all. The butcher will route them into the national larder. Meat dealers everywhere are cooperating.

The butcher will weigh your waste fat, pay you the established price, which will vary according to the part of the country you live in, and turn it over for rendering.

Uncle Sam is not asking you to give up one drop of fat that you are sure you can use. If you broil bacon today, catch all the drippings in a crock and use it for frying tomorrow's fish—Okay. But if you roast lamb or mutton, and pour out all the rather smelly drippings—THAT'S what Uncle Sam wants, and he wants every tablespoonful of it. Many women will say, offhand, they never wasted fats. Think it over. Most

Outlook for Smaller Wartime Industries Not Very Bright

(Editor's note: In this last of a series on the wartime problems of business, James Marlow and William Pinkerton discuss the outlook for smaller plants.)

By JAMES MARLOW AND WILLIAM PINKERTON
Washington, (Wide World)—Events of recent weeks certainly have given little reason for optimism on the part of smaller industrialists still outside the war effort.

The WPB estimate that one out of every eight manufacturing companies in the nation will be closed up for the duration was accompanied by the statement that the mortality might be even higher.

Two main facets of hope—and the opportunity to survive—remain:

The Smaller War Plants Corporation.

Suggestions from WPB and elsewhere that the government subsidize smaller plants which are less than the war effort. The subsidy would not keep the plant in operation, but would preserve the company as a financial unit.

SWPC: America is just learning how fast a modern war gobbles up steel and light metals and rubber and lumber. The WPB, hard-pressed to find enough raw materials to keep the war machine rolling, has made it clear that no money or materials will be expended where they do not return pound for pound to the war effort.

Thus, when Donald M. Nelson set up the Smaller War Plants Corporation, with $150,000 to help smaller industry get into war work, he warned that none of the money would go for charity. He called it "a mechanism to help us increase the total quantity of essential goods of us did waste—plenty."

Don't Wait Too Long Here are a few suggestions:

Strain drippings into a wide-mouthed, clean can, for instance a coffee or vegetable oil can. Use a fine-mesh strainer or a piece of clean cloth. Keep this can in a cool place and add drippings until you have at least one pound.

This last is a "must." The butcher won't buy less than a pound. Also you must sell the waste fat before it gets rancid.

Take your savings to the butcher on weekdays if possible to avoid weekend jams. Take them in something besides a glass or paper container if you possibly can.

Remember, fat equals glycerine, equals fighting power for U. S. and United Nations soldiers. Soldiers eat butter, lard, vegetable oils. They fight with explosives, which must be made from things that in turn are made from fats.

Glycerine makes propellant powder, recoil mechanism of guns, ship compasses, the mechanism which hurds depth charges overboard in naval warfare, medicine, fats are needed for tough paints and varnishes, for ships, barracks, guns, tanks, planes.

Use fats at home efficiently—and that means simply save and sell what used to be wasted.

Known to the army as the O-50-A, the Defender is equipped with two-way radio and has two seats in tandem arrangement.

kept going by the diversion of critical materials to non-essential production, he declared, for such a policy "might prove fatal."

Instead, he proposed a special government agency empowered to spend money to help small business through the dark days ahead. He suggested these methods:

1. For plants closed down for lack of usefulness in the war effort—a government payment to defray the minimum fixed charges and maintenance costs of the plant during the period of enforced shutdown.

2. For plants still running slowly, without profit or at a loss, because of WPB restrictions or materials shortages—loans at favorable interest rates.

3. For plants with normal inventories of half-finished goods that cannot be finished or assembled for lack of critical raw materials—loans at favorable interest rates.

If properly administered, he said, government payments to meet fixed charges of closed plants should come to about $200,000,000—"small indeed as a price for preserving this substantial group of the country's productive enterprises until... they can resume their important operations."

Capital Is a Real Madhouse

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Capital madhouse: A few months ago, he was making nearly $100,000 a year as a Wall Street executive and director of several corporations. Now he is a government official, laboring in the war effort.

"I used to think all those stories about confusion on the Potomac were just flights of reportorial fancy," he said as he sat down at the table. "But, man, did I find out."

"Three weeks after I arrived in town and had been given an office, a push-button, two secretaries and nothing to do, a friend arrived from New York and tried to find me. He called the WPB, the OEM, Lowell Mellett's information bureau, the White House and the Treasury. They all said, 'I'm sorry, but he doesn't work here.' They were right, in a way."

"I never have learned the names of my secretaries. It's not worth the effort. I come to work and be promptly kicked out of their jobs."

Well, the state now needs those married teachers it once treated in such a high-minded, undemocratic manner.

The teachers who can go back to their jobs should, of course, do so as they are badly needed—since so many young, unmarried teachers are quitting their jobs for the higher wages paid in industry.

But before they go back to their jobs they have a job of their own to do while they, and not school boards with old-fogey notions, have the upper hand.

All right, we'll go back to teaching—but not in any community that isn't willing to lift for once and all time its ruling against married teachers."

Don't Accept Temporary Victory

They should refuse point blank to go back to work in a community that is willing to have them now, but not when the war is over. In the past they have been done a grave injustice. It is up to them to fight the matter out now while for their rights.

Women didn't get what rights they now have by being meek and mealy-mouthed. They fought for what they have—and they won't get their full rights everywhere until they fight some more.

In this case it won't take any real fighting—only a firm stand: "We married women will go back to teaching—but only in communities that respect our rights as citizens of a democracy; not in any community that reserves the right to fire us whenever it wants to for no other reason than that we have been so bold as to marry and start homes."
